Purpose:

- identify the indicators of a child or young person who may be in need of protection
- make a report of a child or young person who may be in need of protection
- comply with reporting obligations under child protection law and criminal law.

Scope: All school staff

---

Implemented by: School Coordinator

---

Approved by: KVS Board

Reporting child protection concerns

Any KVS Staff Members, who believe on reasonable grounds that a child or young person is in need of protection from physical injury or sexual abuse, must report their concerns to Department of Human Services (DHS) Child Protection.

If staff have significant concerns for the wellbeing of a child or young person they are encouraged to report their concerns to DHS Child Protection or Child FIRST (see accompanying documentation: Step-by-step Guide to Making a Report to Child Protection or Child FIRST).

In cases where staff have concerns about a child or young person, they should discuss their concerns with the principal or a member of the school leadership team.

Reporting criminal child abuse

Any staff member who forms a reasonable belief that a sexual offence has been committed in Victoria by an adult against a child under 16 must disclose that information to police. Failure to disclose the information to police is a criminal offence (see accompanying documentation: Department of Justice –

Failure to Disclose Fact Sheet), except in limited circumstances such as where the information has already been reported to DHS Child Protection.

Duty of care

School staff have a duty of care to protect the safety, health and wellbeing of children in their care. If a staff member has concerns about the safety, health and wellbeing of children in their care it is important to take immediate action.

In the case of a child who may be in need of protection or therapeutic treatment, or where there are significant concerns about the wellbeing of a child, school staff can discharge this duty of care by taking action which includes the following:

- reporting their concerns to the DHS Child Protection or another appropriate agency (as identified above)
- notifying the School Coordinator or a member of the school leadership team of their concerns and the reasons for those concerns.

Forming a 'reasonable belief'

A 'reasonable belief' or a 'belief on reasonable grounds' is not the same as having proof but is more than mere rumour or speculation.

A 'reasonable belief' is formed if a reasonable person in the same position would have formed the belief on the same grounds. For example, a 'reasonable belief' might be formed if:

- a child states that they have been physically or sexually abused
- a child states that they know someone who has been physically or sexually abused (sometimes the child may be talking about themselves)
- someone who knows a child states that the child has been physically or sexually abused
- professional observations of the child's behaviour or development leads a professional to form a belief that the child has been physically or sexually abused or is likely to be abused
- signs of abuse lead to a belief that the child has been physically or sexually abused.

Types of child abuse and indicators of harm

Child abuse can have a significant effect on a child's physical or emotional health, development and wellbeing. The younger a child the more vulnerable he/she is and the more serious the consequences are likely to be.

Types of child abuse include:

- physical abuse

- sexual abuse
- emotional abuse
- neglect
- medical neglect
- family violence
- human trafficking (including forced marriage).

Other reports to DHS Child Protection may be needed for:

- risk-taking behaviour
- female genital mutilation
- risk to unborn child
- child or young person exhibiting sexually-abusive behaviours.

There are many indicators of child abuse and neglect. The presence of a single indicator, or even several indicators, does not prove that abuse or neglect has occurred. However, the repeated occurrence of an indicator, or the occurrence of several indicators together, should alert teachers to the possibility of child abuse and neglect.
